

Wild Ideas: Story Starters about Wild Interiors® Foliage and Succulents

Pets and Plants

Pets and plants CAN coexist happily together if you know which plants are pet-friendly. Wild Interiors offers a wide range of pet friendly plants, from curly spiders to baby rubber plants and more. In fact, Wild Interiors® has removed the guesswork from your selection process by putting a paw print next to all of its plants that are pet friendly on its website. Check it out!

Dorm Room Decor

The standard-issue furniture might be institutional, but nothing else in a dorm room needs to be dull. One easy, inexpensive way to brighten a college living space is to fill it with plants that require minimal care and soft light. Besides amping up the décor, plants also are said to offer health benefits and support a productive working environment. Homework, anyone?

Succulent Care 101

When it comes to plant care, succulents are among the easiest ones to own. That doesn't mean they don't need some TLC. By following some best practices for care and watering, you'll have succulent success.

Plants for Low-Light Living

Not all plants need bright natural light to thrive. There's a plant out there for even the dimmest rooms in your home. Check out these gorgeous options that thrive in less sunny conditions and learn more about how to care for them, too.

For more inspiration, to arrange an interview with Wild Interiors® growers and experts, or to receive samples or hi-res images, contact:

Robin Suttell | Falls | rsuttell@wearefalls.com | 216.472.4032